Faith First Anniversary

Two years ago this month, our St. Athanasius community began “Faith First,” the practice of reading the Gospel for the coming week and reflecting on it, in order to pay special attention to the gift of Scripture in our lives.

Our faith grows out of our experience of the presence of God. As Catholic Christians, we are doubly blessed to be people of the Table and of the Book. We encounter God in the Sacraments, notably the Eucharist, and also in the Scripture.

Every gathering and meeting in the parish begins with a reading of the Gospel for the coming Sunday, and reflection on the message of that particular passage. But why wait to come to a meeting? This is a gift that we can all enjoy, whenever we want, at home, at work, on the train or in the car.

The readings for each day of the week are already listed in The Chimes. In addition to this list, you may consult the website for the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops - www.usccb.org - where you can access the readings for any day, in text or audio form, view a video reflection, or download a podcast or smart phone application.

This is lectio divina – divine or holy reading. Putting aside our present concerns for a few minutes to sit with God and listen is an important form of prayer. We may read Scripture, or a passage from a favorite spiritual writer or poet. Our calm and our listening remind us that all space is sacred space. This fall we will have a number of opportunities to learn more about Scripture and lectio divina.

“Before Reading the Gospels” - Scripture study with Bill Murphy introduces a guide to lifestyles, language and culture in first century Palestine on Wednesdays, October 5, 12 and 19, 1:30 to 3:00 pm in the Fitzgerald Chapel.

“Lectio Divina” – A workshop with Suzanne Zuercher, OSB, from St. Scholastica, introduces the practice of reading Holy Scripture and other spiritual literature on Thursday, October 6, 7:00 pm in the Fitzgerald Chapel.

Thank You from Catholic Charities

Dear Father Thomas,

Thank you for asking your parishioners to take part in the Catholic Charities collection on Mother's Day and sharing information about our work with them. We received your parish check for $3,848.50 on 8/1/2001 and will put it to immediate good use.

We have seen a staggering need for assistance in recent years. Because of your parish's generosity, Catholic Charities can be here when people come to us in the most vulnerable time in their lives. Along with the food, housing, counseling and other services they get from us, each person receives dignity and respect. We do all we can to strengthen and support them.

I hope you know how profoundly grateful I am for your continued support of the work of Catholic Charities.

Sincerely,

Rev. Monsignor Michael M. Boland

GOSPEL FOR SEPTEMBER 25, 2011

Twenty-Sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time

MATTHEW 21:28-32

JESUS SAID TO THE CHIEF PRIESTS and elders of the people: "What is your opinion? A man had two sons. He came to the first and said, 'Son, go out and work in the vineyard today.' He said in reply, 'I will not, 'but afterwards changed his mind and went. The man came to the other son and gave the same order. He said in reply, 'Yes, sir,' but did not go. Which of the two did his father's will?" They answered, "The first." Jesus said to them, "Amen, I say to you, tax collectors and prostitutes are entering the kingdom of God before you. When John came to you in the way of righteousness, you did not believe him; but tax collectors and prostitutes did. Yet even when you saw that, you did not later change your minds and believe him."

After reading the Gospel aloud, in unison, those gathered reflect on the following questions:

- In this passage, what word, phrase or image struck you?
- How does that speak to you personally?
- How does that speak to our community at St. Athanasius? And to the wider Church?

Conclude by praying the Our Father together.

Working with the Scriptures

September 18, 2011 (Isa. 55:6-9; Mt. 20:1-16a)

Having been an employee in private industry for years, Matthew's Gospel about the landowner and the laborers used to really bother me. There were no unions in my office, but I was part of an association formed to represent my fellow workers and so, in these days of political wrangling around issues of unions and collective bargaining, this Gospel takes on a special significance for me. I'm well aware of the tensions that can arise when one employee thinks that another, newer employee is being paid more than they, and I'm guessing that the disciples could relate to this way of thinking as well.

But Jesus came to teach another way of thinking. Rather than focusing on the worker, we are to focus on the generosity of the landowner. Could there not also be a lesson there for us?

Before the recent elections and recall elections, teachers and public employees, like most other workers, pretty much took it for granted that they would be compensated based on the number of years they had worked and the education and experience they brought to their jobs. People worked where they had always worked, laborers who had been there since dawn, being paid what they had always been paid. But changes in union rules could mean that many of them might lose their jobs. Other workers who found their previous expectations altered or totally dismissed managed to find other employment paying as well or better, arriving in their new vineyard about nine o'clock. Still others, having ridden out the storm of political marches and sit-ins secure in their jobs, came to the vineyard around noon, or perhaps 3:00. But the last group, those who lost their jobs or ended up taking jobs at considerably less pay, arrived much later in the day.

"Are you envious because I am generous?" How do we answer this question if we're the ones who worked through the day? How do we respond to those who enjoy the benefits of the job but show little interest in making the workplace better for those who come after them? How does God think? How do we?
